Kennebunk Free Library is officially a Family Place Library™!

We were so excited to receive our Family Place banner last month!

"Family Place Libraries transforms libraries into community centers for early literacy, parent education, and family support." We do this through our 1-2-3, Play With Me, Storytime, and Thursday Family Fun Play programs, as well as our fun play areas in the library. We love being a destination for learning, growing, and playing for our littlest library friends and their families!

A library patron said it best: "It makes our day to see other families, practice sharing, laugh, and play with other children we don't see elsewhere. KFL is awesome, so kid-friendly, a true asset to our community. Thank you!"

Thank you to the Family Place Libraries group and to all of our library friends!

Fiction Book Discussion - May 27

Join us on Tuesday, May 27 at 1 p.m. to discuss The Thursday Murder Club by Richard Osman.

"British TV celebrity Osman mixes mirth and murder in his exceptional debut, a series launch featuring the four members of the Thursday Murder Club, residents of the Coopers Chase Retirement Village in Kent. Despite their different backgrounds, Elizabeth, Ibrahim, Joyce, and Ron share an interest in solving mysteries. When 26-year-old Donna De Freitas, a police constable who dreams of pursuing serial killers, visits the home to talk to the pensioners about "Practical Tips for Home Security," the club members arrange for Donna to be assigned to a homicide case they have a connection to by manipulating her boss, so that they can get access to the investigation through a grateful Donna. That way they can take a crack at solving the bludgeoning murder of drug dealer Tony Curran, who operated a building business as a front, and whose killer left a photo of three men, one of whom is Ron's son, near Curran's corpse. They use their individual talents, including Joyce's gift for gathering information unobtrusively, and Ibrahim's medical knowledge, which enables him to narrow the timing of a second, related killing. Osman's witty prose (labor activist Ron's "picture was rarely in the papers without the caption 'Talks between the two sides collapsed late last night'") is a highlight. Fans of Lynne Truss's Constable Twitten mysteries will be tickled." - Publishers Weekly

Die Well Death Education - June 23

Join us at Kennebunk Free Library on Monday, June 23 from 6 to 7:30 p.m. for the eleventh session in the Die Well Death Education Series with host Leona Oceania. You are welcome to attend one or all of the sessions - no registration is required.

Most people think there are two basic body disposition options: burial and cremation. Not true! There are many more than that, several of which are far more affordable than the "standard offerings" from a funeral home.

This month we will discuss the Body Disposition Options available in Maine and review and discuss the "The Funeral Rule," a law implemented and enforced by the Federal Trade Commission in 1984 (amended in 1994), to protect consumers when purchasing funeral goods and services. In short, protecting consumers from unscrupulous selling practices in the funeral industry.

*Individually wrapped, homemade skull cakelets will be provided.

Due to the holiday closure, there will be no program in May. See you in June!

May Take and Make - Lavender Sachets

Spruce up your drawers and add some spring to your closet with this month's adult take and make kit, which includes supplies to sew two lavender sachets. Kits will be available starting Tuesday May 13, while supplies last.

Speers Gallery

May Artist: J. Hutchinson Fay

The Speers Gallery at the Kennebunk Free Library presents "Quintessential New England Landscapes and Architecture: This is New England" by J. Hutchinson Fay. The exhibition runs May 1 through 31, with an opening reception on Saturday, May 10 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.. All are welcome.

J. Hutchinson Fay began oil painting at the age of 11 and honed his craft at the Acorn Gallery School of Art in Marblehead, MA. His paintings reflect the warm, real and imperfect buildings and homes of our New England coasts to rural inlands. From the perspective of the blue-collar worker, his work embodies the essence of familiar places and landscapes that are ever changing and often lost to time.

Hutchinson Fay feels that everyone should be able to afford to create and has opened his Biddeford studio, Art Factory Studio, to the public three days a week where he teaches the foundations of printing making and oil painting. He is also a member of the Marblehead Arts Association, the Lyme Art Association and the North Shore Arts Association.

Kennebunk Free Library is excited to welcome this talented artist for his first exhibit in our Speers Gallery.

The public is invited to view the exhibit in the library's Speers Gallery from May 1 through the 31 at 112 Main St., Kennebunk, Maine during regular library hours when the gallery is not in use for library programs. Please check the library website for current hours and gallery access, www.kennebunklibrary.org.

Night of the Living Rez by Morgan Talty

This collection of twelve stories gives a view into the contemporary life of Panawahpskek (Penobscot) Nation through the voice of the narrator, David. Hauntingly real experiences have led to drug addiction and a desperate desire to get out of their circumstances. Some reviews mention this has elements of horror; I didn't see it like that. The generational effects are felt decades after trauma is over. Our indigenous community members are generously letting us in on what is going on with them. This is the October selection for the Adult Book Discussion at KFL. (Available as a book from KFL, large print from Minerva, audio from Libby)

Be Ready When the Luck Happens by Ina Garten

In her memoir, Ina Garten lets us in on the good and the difficult of her childhood, the early years with her husband filled with travel and adventure, her successful career in Washington, DC as a financial analyst, and the difficulties of being a woman in the man's world of the 1960s that almost led to the end of her marriage. Ina makes some very high-risk choices in her business and personal life, when coupled with very hard work has brought her to the amazing place in the world she holds. Often, I did find myself observing that she has accomplished all this from a place of great privilege. Regardless, she is an interesting woman who knows how to tell a great story.

(Available as a book from KFL, large print and audio cds from Minerva, audio from Libby)

Revenge of the Tipping Point overstories, superspreaders, and the rise of social engineering by Malcolm Gladwell (audio read by the author)

I waited a long time for the audio version to become available from Libby. It has been 25 years since the original Tipping Point was published. The author has been criticized over the years for drawing his conclusions from other people's data and reviewers seem to see some extra care in that area. I love his drilling down on topics of social contagion such as a simple prescription law that seems to have protected states from the opioid addiction crisis, college admissions and sports, why Miami is the center of Medicare fraud, and which TV show changed the US's collective minds on gay marriage, among others. If you like getting into the nitty gritty of things, you will enjoy this book. (Available from KFL in print, Libby as audio)
